THET 401. Capstone Experience

The capstone experience is defined as: an academic experience in which students demonstrate, in a significant, relevant project that has both an oral and a written component, their abilities:

1. To gather material independently, as needed.
2. To think critically about and to integrate the theoretical and/or practical knowledge that they have acquired throughout their undergraduate careers.
3. To reflect on the ethical issues that are implicit in their project and/or their project’s design.
